PREFACE

The Hon. W. A. P. Thompson has been a collector of coins for upwards of forty years, attending nearly all the public auction sales, as well as purchasing at private sales from the dealers. The result is here offered for public sale without any reserve, and I think every collector will find among its numerous offerings some item of interest; so that I hope every one receiving this catalogue will send in some bids, and as the time before the sale is short—attend to it at once.

At nearly every sale bid-sheets arrive unsigned, and in a few instances I have not been able to identify the sender; so I earnestly request bidders to compare their bid-sheet with the catalogue, see that they are on the right numbers and sign their name and address, dispatching it at the earliest moment, so they will be here prior to the sale.

Any one who receives one of these catalogues and has no use for it, or has discontinued collecting and does not want subsequent catalogues, will confer a favor upon me by returning it and notifying me of the fact, so his name may be removed from my mailing list.

My constant aim is to describe coins as they are, drawing attention to any defects which the coin has, caused by imperfect minting or subsequent wear or damage, so that the buyer will find the coin fully up to the description. That my efforts in this direction are being more and more appreciated is a gratification to me. I am always ready to meet the buyer more than half way if any difference should arise.

Thanking collectors for their support in the past, and striving to merit a continuance of the same,

HENRY CHAPMAN,
Numismatist,
No. 1348 Pine St., Philadelphia.

1839 Over 1836. Mr. Thompson informs me that he has made it a special hobby to purchase nearly all the cents of this variety that have been offered in the past thirty years and that he considers it far more rare than 1799 or 1804, and it is evident from the small number he had accumulated that his belief was well founded, for had he pursued the same practice in 1799 and 1804 he would have had a greater number. There are three states of the obverse die—perfect; crack from eye to edge midway between third and fourth stars; crack extends across obv. The first ~~eighteen~~ three are the perfect die, the next eight are the first state of the crack, and last three the crack extends across. A. 13 B 8 C 3 Total 24.
